LAST WEEK saw the opening of Oxford Parkway, the first new station linking a major city to London for more than 100 years.

The station was opened by Prime Minister and Witney MP David Cameron and passengers were able to catch the first service to London Marylebone.

Regular trains to the capital have journey times of under an hour and 250,000 passengers are expected to use the service during the next year.

As a result, properties in the immediate area, such as Kidlington, have already seen a boost in popularity which is radiating out to houses within a two-mile radius. Two family homes in North Oxford, both within a comfortable drive of the new station, are available to let through agents Finders Keepers.

The first is a five-bedroom Victorian house in Banbury Road, which has plenty of character such as wooden floors and feature fireplaces.

It has five bedrooms, two bathrooms and two cloakrooms.

There is a kitchen/breakfast room with walk-in pantry and cellar for extra storage space, and the property has a garden and off-street parking for several cars.

It is also a short walk or cycle from North Oxford schools and Summertown shops.

It is available to let, either furnished or unfurnished, through Finders Keepers at £4,995 per month.

Another five-bedroom house is available in Lonsdale Road in Summertown.

Described as "spacious" by agents, it has been upgraded with a new kitchen and bathroom.

It is available to let, unfurnished, at £2,995 per month with Finders Keepers.
