TWO one-bedroom luxury apartments in converted period buildings are set in contrasting locations.

The first is a riverside penthouse in Osney Mill, which once produced flour for bread.

Osney Mill was destroyed by a fire in the mid-1940s, and in 2011, the four-storey development was transformed from a former flour mill into 10 riverside apartments and two houses. Parts of the original building have been kept as part of the site's conversion into a development of new apartments.

The mill is on a branch of the River Thames in Mill Street and near Osney Lock.

It is also on the site of the now-destroyed Osney Abbey and rubble and timber-framed structure believed to date from the 15th century still remains and was Grade-II listed in 1954.

The flat in Osney Mill, described by agents as "stunning", offers loft-style living with one double bedroom and one bathroom.

There is also a mezzanine level with study, which agents say could be used as an occasional spare bedroom.

The apartment has an open-plan style kitchen and a light living/dining room with a balcony overlooking the river.

The apartment also comes with an allocated, undercover parking space and is a five-minute walk from Oxford train station and city centre.

No pets are allowed.

The property is available to let, furnished, immediately, through Finders Keepers for £1,695 per month.

The other apartment is part of a grand Victorian house in Staverton Road and has plenty of period features such as high ceilings and bay windows.
